IUVSTA, an international union of 33 scientific national research societies of more than 15,000 members, is pleased to announce its support of the March for Science which will take place on Earth Day, April 22, 2017.

IUVSTA wishes to participate in the international dialogue by active engagement in important science policy actions and discussions. The March for Science, an international movement led by organizers distributed around the globe, aligns well with IUVSTA’s scientific social responsibility: to be able to tell and explain our scientific and engineering world to the public at large.

IUVSTA fully endorses the March for Science’s goals and encourages its members to articulate clearly our role in problems that the younger generation is interested in, i.e. to convey the importance of Vacuum Science in relation to social innovation and societal development.
